01

A BRIEF BACKGROUND

Banks typically serve local markets, rather than global customers. Because of this, individuals and businesses in many regions find it challenging to access cross-border banking services.

To solve these issues, we need innovative solutions that enable better access to global banking.

Traditional banks are risk averse and typically concentrate on local, rather than global, customers. This can lead to account closures and strict eligibility criteria based on residency, citizenship, minimum assets and income. As a result, entirely respectable clients have trouble opening accounts and accessing services.

Offshore banking is a crucial component of the global financial system, serving as a cornerstone of international investment and growth. Global individuals and businesses operating across borders need alternative banking options that offer streamlined account opening while remaining internationally compliant.

Regional banks remain unable to provide globally agile solutions for customers like these. Because of this, entrepreneurs and private citizens find it difficult to establish a financial presence away from home. As time goes on, the need for efficient and inclusive banking is more pressing than ever.

Complex global problems demand innovative solutions from leading players. Recently, industry innovators have begun to change the way cross-border transactions take place, ensuring that clients have the necessary tools and resources to navigate the international financial system.

By developing a range of comprehensive financial solutions that cater to the specific needs of clients, including account management, currency conversion and investment tools, they are changing the way global finance works. Business owners, non-residents and other individuals benefit from greater financial flexibility, reduced costs and streamlined services.

However, there is still more to be done. At Interpolitan, we take a fresh approach to the growing demand for alternative banking solutions. With a modern, intuitive platform, personalised service and a dedicated compliance team, our financial solutions simplify cross-border transactions. Our goal is to empower clients, helping them seize international investment and growth opportunities all over the world.

Interpolitan Money: A truly global alternative banking solution.

02

THE PROBLEM

Our clients want more from their banks.

They are constrained by borders and searching for new solutions. The complexity of international banking impacts:

- Entry into new markets
- Growing customer base
- Buying new inventory
- Paying suppliers / payroll
- Hiring new staff
- Distributing goods
- International investment opportunities

1.

Access to financial services across jurisdictions via traditional and offshore banking remains extremely challenging.

2.

Professional services are increasingly searching for alternative banking solutions for their clients.

3.

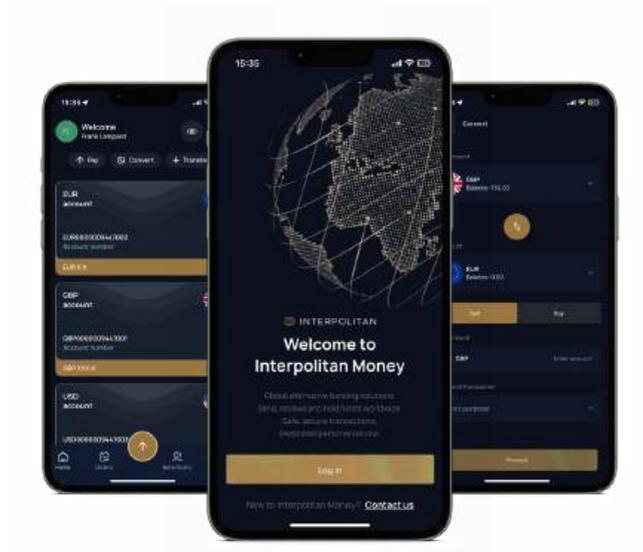

Even with the growth of fintech, there is a widespread absence of solutions for complex structures, offshore accounts and non-resident clients.

CASE STUDY

Leading bank strengthens global operations with Interpolitan's multi-currency solutions

01 / Background

The client is a well-established financial service provider, offering letters of credit and alternative corporate funding solutions to a global client base. With operations spanning multiple currencies, this global trade services bank needed an effective way to manage currency risk while maintaining efficient international transactions.

02 / Challenge

The bank faced a significant challenge in finding a traditional banking partner that could offer a multi-currency account capable of reducing exposure to foreign exchange fluctuations. As a global business, they needed a solution that would allow them to easily send and receive funds in multiple currencies while hedging currency risk.

Challenge:
Managing currency risk for global transactions

03 / Solution
Interpolitan stepped in as an alternative banking provider, offering tailored multi-currency solutions. We worked closely with the bank, taking time to understand the company's business model and currency needs. Based on this, we provided a multi-currency account that allowed the bank to transact in various currencies while offering effective risk management and enhanced efficiency.

04 / Outcome

- Improved currency risk mitigation: Our multi-currency account helped the bank minimise the impact of foreign exchange fluctuations, protecting their bottom line.
- Increased efficiency and cost savings: With streamlined transactions and reduced currency conversion fees, the bank achieved greater operational efficiency and cost savings.
- Expanded client base: The ability to offer letters of credit in multiple currencies enabled Euro Exim Bank to attract a more diverse international client base.
- Enhanced regulatory compliance: Interpolitan's regulated status provided a secure and compliant environment, ensuring the bank could confidently conduct global transactions.

This partnership allowed the bank to enhance its financial operations and continue growing its international presence.

CASE STUDY

Securing swift alternative banking solutions for a £100m London property sale.

01 / Background

Interpolitan advised and provided alternative banking solutions to an ultra-high-net-worth individual (UHNWI) in the sale of a prime real estate property in central London. Valued at over £100m, the sale was conducted through a special purpose vehicle (SPV). The client's challenge lay in securing a UK non-resident account to receive the sale proceeds, as several UK banks were unable to provide a solution, delaying the transaction.

01 / Challenge

The UHNWI client, a non-resident, needed a UK current account to facilitate the sale of their London property, held within an SPV. Under the Solicitors Accounts Rules 2019 (SAR 19), the proceeds from the property sale could only be sent to the beneficial owner, so the client had to open a UK-based account. Several UK banks were unable to accommodate the request, stalling the release of the funds and putting the transaction at risk.

02 / Solution

The client identified Interpolitan based on our ability to manage complex structured deals. After assessing the urgency of the transaction, we swiftly onboarded the client and opened a UK-based current account for the SPV within just five days, completing all compliance checks promptly. This expedited process meant the client could receive the settlement from the sale.

03 / Outcome

In partnership with the client's tier one law firm, Interpolitan opened the account in record time, significantly faster than traditional high-street banks. After the property sale successfully concluded, proceeds were transferred to the client's new current account at Interpolitan. The client then carried out a series of further domestic and international transactions, ensuring smooth financial operations post-sale.
